Road To Dike In Belle Glade Will Be Built By State

The State Road department is asking for bids to be received on Aug. 1 for rebuilding the road from the packing houses in Belle Glade out to the government dike, according to a letter received this week by County Commissioner Paul Rardin from State Road Board Member H. B. Fultz.

Last August Rardin made a trip to Daytona where the state road board was in session and upon his request the state board took over this particular piece of road for state maintenance. In April and May of this year Rardin sought aid from many growers in Belle Glade in pointing out to the department the necessity of rebuilding the stretch of road out to the dike. The state department agreed to add enough rock to stabilize the road and plans call for a bituminous surface treatment.

This is another in the long list of needed roads in the Glades to receive attention of the proper authorities, through the co-operation of County Commissioner Rardin.

Work was halted several weeks ago on construction of the new boulevard from the main street bridge in Belle Glade out to the packing houses. Heavy rains caused the rock pit to go under water and the Belcher Oil Company, contractors, are of the opinion that work can be resumed within the next few weeks providing the rains hold off.

Little Jack had been so persistently naughty that his mother had to give him a good spanking. Finally bedtime came, and in his prayers he asked a blessing on all the members of the family individually except one. Then, rising, he turned to his mother with a triumphant look, saying as he climbed into bed: "I s'pose you noticed you wasn't in it?"—Empire State Magazine.

The Stomach Griever

A doctor friend said to me the other day: "I've had to stop putting American magazines in my waiting room. Their technicolor food advertisements upset my patients, whose food is so mono-chromatic." That is as profound an observation as any in the current newspaper debate between doctors as to whether we, as a nation, are undernourished. What the eye sees, the stomach grieves about. The gray monotony of sausage meat makes us feel our diet is inadequate.—London New Statesman.

Freedom's Goal

The fact that under free institutions the people of the United States have achieved the highest standards of living found anywhere in the world seems to have confused many in this country into the belief that freedom means to reach the goal of ease and comfort. But the fruit of freedom is not primarily a full stomach or more radios, automobiles, nylon stockings, refrigerators, fur coats, and labor-saving devices. The fruit of freedom is a lifting of the human spirit above the creature comforts of life to a point where they become minor items in the journey of man through the world.—Burlington (Vt.) Free Press.

Where Our Sugar Goes

Housewives were naturally greatly surprised to learn that the government has set aside some 2,000,000 pounds of sugar for export, and that Russia is negotiating for the whole amount, the only question at issue being the matter of price. Russia is said to be asking for some shading of the price which is now fixed at 6½ cents a pound. The American people would be glad to take the 2,000,000 pounds and they would not be haggling over the price even at several cents more.

But this is not the only sugar that is going to foreign countries while the people at home are going without. The government is sending sugar to many other countries, in amounts that may reach one billion pounds by the end of this year. The department of agriculture spokesman said he had no specific information about the 2,000,000 pounds going to Russia, although it would seem that department ought to know when our own people are on such rations.—Jackson (Miss.) Daily News.

Florida Prison Report

If you hire a man to guard prisoners and pay him only $40 a month, you get only $40 worth of service, or possibly even less. That, as we interpret it, is the crux of the very excellent federal report on Florida's prison system which has just been submitted at the request of Governor Caldwell. The gist of the report is that Florida's prison system is sadly inadequate and badly in need of being brought up to date, reconstructed in the light of modern penological practices now being followed by the federal government and by many states.

The report looks beyond punishment of a criminal. It presupposes that a prisoner will be duly punished, but it also takes cognizance of the fact that a vast percentage of prisoners eventually gain their freedom and therefore need to be rehabilitated as much as possible during their period of imprisonment. L. F. Chapman, superintendent of the state prison farm, was on the carpet recently because a dozen prisoners escaped from the institution at Raiford. He quite properly refused to take the rap for Florida prison conditions generally, pointing out that his program is limited by the men and equipment the money allowed for the state prison system will obtain. He stressed especially the low pay allowed for guards and other personnel.

It's a very familiar platitude among money-minded Americans that you get just about what you pay for. That applies to prison help as well as school teachers, household furnishings, hardware and office help. The federal report says prison employees are not only lowpaid but also have to work unreasonably long hours and have too many duties. It adds a note of emphasis by saying that the state can hardly expect better performance than it is now getting for the price it is paying. Certainly, under present living costs, it is not now possible to get fully competent men to work for salaries from $40 to $100 a month. In fact, all the state departments have been rapidly losing their better qualified men to private business because of the much higher salaries offered by private business.

In the final analysis, the federal report says simply that if Floridians are really ashamed of their neglected prison system and want to improve it, they will have to spend more money than is now being spent. But the report is comprehensive and practical in that it includes specific suggestions for improvement. It is a report that should not be dismissed lightly. It has a fundamental bearing on Florida's future.—Lakeland Ledger.

CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"Life" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, July 21.

The Golden Text is: "I shall not die, but live, and declare the works of the Lord . . . God is the Lord, which hath shewed us light" (Ps. 118:17,27).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "That which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled, of the Word of life: (For the life was manifested, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and shew unto you that eternal life, which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us)"

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook,

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Because Life is God, Life must be eternal, self-existent. Life is the everlasting I Am; the Being who was and is and shall be, whom nothing can erase" (p. 289:32-2).

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Herring, accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Edward A. Jensen and daughters Donna Gale and Patsy Ann left Sunday to visit relatives in Alabama for several weeks.

No Wheat used in Beer or Ale

TODAY, wheat is needed to feed the world's hungry people. Although wheat has never been a large item in the brewing process, the brewing industry has used no wheat whatsoever since the food crisis arose in March. All of us—every American—can help during this emergency by cooperating with these three recommendations from the President's Famine Emergency Committee:

1. Cut down on wheat products one-third; on fats and oils one-fourth.
2. Buy and serve the more plentiful foods.
3. Waste NO food.

FREE THEM FROM HUNGER

You can help . . . right in your own kitchen. Fats and oils are scarce. In the famine areas of the world, men and women would fight to get the used kitchen fat you throw in your garbage or wash down the drain.

Use and reuse your kitchen fats and turn in your surplus grease for four cents a pound. It is used here at home to help make soap and other products, and releases fresh food fats for shipment overseas. Save every drop.

Believing the food conservation program to be worthy of everyone's wholehearted support, and knowing that a little bit of food conserved in every home will go a long way toward relieving hunger in foreign lands, the above advertisement is sponsored by

Hospitals Stymied By Nurse Shortage

ORLANDO — Reporting that more than 65 percent of 1,060 hospitals surveyed in the nation now have unused beds and 23 percent of all hospitals have been forced to close wards, beds and entire wings due to the acute shortage of nurses, the National Nursing Council this week is launching a nation-wide appeal for 30,000 additional nursing students.

Aiming their appeal at women between the age of 18 and 34 years who are high school graduates, the Council appealed for immediate registrations by these women in the nearest recognized training school.

Pointing out that nursing executives now earn as high as $8,000 annually, the Council declared that nursing schools provide the equivalent of a college education at a minimum cost, preparing the student for a life time of usefulness whether she chooses marriage, a nursing career or both. Asking that interested women register immediately in the nearest recognized training school, a special appeal for registrants was made by the Orange General Hospital at Orlando, Fla., an approved hospital which conducts an accredited training school.

Added burdens of increased birth rate and thousands of returning sick and wounded veterans has increased a national emergency that must be alleviated within the shortest time possible, the Council said.

Weather Ideal In State For Air Corps

TAMPA — Florida's ideal conditions and facilities for year-around aviation that first brought the Army Air Forces to the state 10 years ago, again put Florida in the running last week for still greater air developments in the near future.

As the Army Air Forces shifted from a war to peacetime organization, it had in the planning stage hitherto undreamed-of expansion in jet and rocket research, calling for the establishment of a $300,000,000 experimental center and other developments.

Army Air Forces engineers are now seeking a site for this center where the Air Forces will carry on research in super-sonic aircraft, space rockets, guided missiles and electronics. The requirements are: (1) A coastal area; (2) Large blocks of economical electric power continuously available for a power load of 1,000,000 horsepower; (3) Large quantities of the coldest possible water having a relatively high natural purity with respect to mineral content and corrosive characteristics; (4) Temperate clear weather conditions; (5) Adequate transportation and communication facilities; (6) A location near main trunk rail lines and highways; (7) Space for surrounding air fields.

The requirements are essentially those that attracted the Air Forces to Florida in 1936, and met ideally by Florida offerings. The only question is the choice of a particular section.

The project is being directed by Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, deputy chief of air staff for research.

Must Advertise If Juice Is To Be Sold

TAMPA — J. Adams Bruce, president of Bruce's Juices, speaking before the Tampa Advertising Club traced the history of his organization from its small start 20 years ago when it began bottling citrus juice for local consumption to the present day and stated that 18,000,000 cans of citrus and vegetable juices were shipped last season.

He warned that the day is fast approaching when citrus canners and shippers will have to give serious consideration to advertising and merchandising if we are to market our 68,000,000 boxes of fruit, which in another two or three years will increase to 120 million boxes.

Bruce said that Florida is being challenged by California and Texas and we can hold our leadership only through an aggressive merchandising and advertising program.

EMBARGO ON CATTLE

ORLANDO — Action was taken by the Florida Farm Bureau last week to place an embargo on the shipment of cloven hoof animals coming directly from Texas, where Brahman cattle from hoof and mouth areas of Brazil have reportedly been imported.

Directors also called on the federal government for speedy action regarding the critical grain and feed shortage situation and while expressing sympathy with the effort of this nation to provide grain for Europe, point out that American dairy and poultry stock should not be allowed to starve and the nation's ability to produce dairy and poultry products curtailed for lack of feed.

WOULD ACCREDIT SCHOOL

TAMPA — Trustees of the University of Tampa took the first steps last week in a program to have the school accredited by voting to sign a contract with the American City Bureau to manage a campaign for a $50,000 Endowment Fund. $50,000 is the minimum amount the school could have and be entitled to an accredited status. The fund raising campaign will be conducted this Fall, officials said.

Florida's first commercial ramie crop is now being harvested in the Everglades by the Florida Ramie Corporation.

Optometrists Met In Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH — More than 100 optometrists from all sections of Florida gathered in Miami Beach last week for the first state convention of the Florida Optometrists Association held since Pearl Harbor.

Speakers included outstanding authorities in the field of optometry.

At the close of the three day session the following officers were elected to serve for the coming year: Dr. George Copeland, Jacksonville, President; Dr. Walter Kennedy, Sarasota, Tom Moore, Tallahassee and John Keene, Orlando, Vice Presidents and Carroll Ezzell of Jacksonville, Secretary-treasurer. The association voted to hold its 1947 convention in St. Petersburg.

Dormitory To House 300 UF Students

JACKSONVILLE — Erection of a permanent dormitory at the University of Florida at a cost of $750,000 was recommended by the State Board of Control.

The building would house approximately 300 students. The board also requested the allocation of $910,000 for an addition to the library at the university, $300,000 for an addition to the chemistry building and $350,000 for a classroom building.

The board also approved an increase in the revolving fund at the Florida Agricultural and Mechanical College for Negroes from $3,000 to $10,000, where summer enrollment is the largest in the history of the school.

The "Carib Queen," first of the fleet of super-ferries planned by the Gulf Atlantic Transportation Company, for service between Key West and Havana, will be launched July 25 according to H. G. Williams, GATCO President.

Cinematic Chatter

By Malcolm Miller

Well, folks, I know this is not the best weather in the world to subject anyone to undue exercise, but . . . If you attend the Prince Theatre on Thursday or Friday you will find yourself subjected to the most violent exercise . . . especially around the mid-riff section, because you will find yourself indulging in spine twisting (pardon the vulgarity) "belly laughs". Why?, you ask.

Here is your reason. Abbott and Costello, whom I know I can state, without fear of contradiction, are the screwiest "hokum" comics to work in Hollywood films since the days of The Keystone Cops, Buster Keaton and Charlie Chaplin. The boys have cooked up a laugh show under the title "Abbott and Costello in Hollywood."

In the cast with the boys are Frances Rafferty, Robert Stanton, Jean Porter, Warner Young, Rags Ragland, Mike Mazurki, Carlton G. Anderson, and many other names in Hollywood. Everyone in the cast turn in incomparable performances, and there are a bevy of beautiful gals who "trip the light fantasi," (as they used to say in the West.)

The picture takes one on a sort of sight-seeing tour of all of the important movie studios and lots, introduces you to some of the leading stars at their work and gives you a barrel of thrills in the bargain.

Of course the boys dig up some of their "blackout bits" from the old Burley-Q days, but they have some new ones to add that will give you fresh laughs.

For instance, there is the telephone bit that Costello goes through that is one of the funniest bits yet to be done by these comics. Then there is a scene where Costello is mistaken for a dummy and, believe me, there is plenty of laughs in this scene.

At the near finish of the picture there is a roller-coaster scene that will roll you on the floor. "In this scene you will get your money's worth if you see nothing else.

That is all I'm going to say about this show. I know you all know about the talents of these two comics, so it would be useless for me to say more.

So . . . I'll see you at the movies —Mal.

The Laughingest Show You Have Seen To Date

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

(By Russell Kay)

Tampa, or at least that portion of it that is located in the downtown and night club area, took on an atmosphere of Tallahassee during a legislative session. The occasion was the caucus of Florida's 1947 House of Representatives, held in Tampa last week end. Lawmakers, new and old, lobbyists, newspapermen and camp followers swarmed hotels, tap rooms, barbershops and restaurants, shaking hands, slapping backs and carrying on in true convention style.

While the affair officially a House caucus, senators had been invited as a matter of courtesy and most of the august gentlemen of the chamber of dignity attended.

The innocent bystander who may have chanced into the lobby of the Floridian Hotel along about cocktail time must surely have imagined that he had either entered a madhouse, or had joined a herd of cattle in a dipping vat. The place had all the earmarks of a disturbed ant-hill and the attending sound effect was akin to an angry swarm of bees. Now and then the normal buzz and hum would be punctuated by a yell of greeting or a burst of shrill laughter. To offset this the coattail pullers and whisperers milled about through the assembly to yank this or that victim away to a secluded corner behind a palm for a period of earnest whispering. But it was all off the record and all in fun, so a good time was had by everyone.

But there was a serious side to the business and seasoned observers found plenty of material for speculation as they considered the session's action.

State money and what to do with it, was a matter of primary consideration. The ideas expressed by lawmakers in his regard were most encouraging to those concerned with the welfare of schools and heavily burdened municipalities.

It was generally agreed that the schools, counties and municipalities had a just claim for additional state funds, also that state institutions deserved greater consideration.

With the state still full and running over, legislators looked forward to the wildest stampede for state funds that any legislature has here-to-fore experienced. Senator Walter W. Rose of Orlando called for an intelligent tax revision program and the elimination of dual and overlapping activities of boards, bureaus and commissions.

Representative R. Bunn Gautier of Miami advocated a joint House-

Senate committee to work on an "overall and co-ordinated tax program relating to local subdivisions of government." Admitting that such a committee might overlap some of the work of the Governor's Citizens' Tax Committee, he and other legislators viewed their approach as more practical.

Backing up Gautier's suggestion, Representative Perry Murray of Frostproof said, "It is really going to be a grab bag; that is why co-ordination by such a committee will be vital."

Skepticism was widespread about the blueprint for a 36-block Capitol Center, on which the Governor has set his heart. Most lawmakers seemed to feel that first things should come first, and Representative Murray admitted that while there was undoubtedly need for increased space in Tallahassee he looked on the present ambitious plan as alarming.

All indications pointed to the 1947 Legislature as an extremely independent body. Certainly it won't be a Governor's Legislature and there was plenty of evidence of hostility to administration plans. Speaker elect Representative Thomas D. Beasley of DeFuniak Springs, sounded a keynote when he said, "I'm willing to cooperate with the Governor on any reasonable proposal, but he owes me nothing and I owe him nothing." Altogether the caucus can be termed successful and worthwhile. It gave a pretty clear indication of what can be expected from the 1947 body and set the wheels in motion for the pressure boys pro and con who are directly concerned with which way the cat jumps.

Farm Mortgages Lowest In 26 Years

A change in the farm mortgage trend in the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is indicated by the figures just released by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, according to Julian H. Scarborough, president of the Federal Land Bank of Columbia.

"The most recent figures of the BAE show that the nation's farm mortgage debt is now estimated at five billion, $1 million dollars," he said. "This is the lowest level of farm mortgage indebtedness since 1915 and is less than half of the peak of 10 billion, 196 million dollars reached in 1923."

"The report also suggests that the long cycle of decreased mortgage indebtedness beginning in 1923 is now nearing its end. Twenty states, including North Carolina and Florida, showed an increase in the farm mortgage indebtedness in 1945. For the same period South Carolina showed a decrease in its farm mortgage debt of 2.4 per cent, and Georgia a decrease of 3.2 per cent. However," President Scarborough stated, "both South Carolina and Georgia showed a considerable slowing down in the rate of farm debt reduction in 1945 over 1944."

It is the opinion of the land bank official that with greater industrial production a much larger proportion of farm income will go into repairs, improvements, and the purchase of needed goods, and less to the retirement of mortgage debts.

Mr. Scarborough reported that for the last three months the mortgage loan account of the Federal Land Bank of Columbia has shown a consistent increase for the first time since 1935. "This," he said, "would seem to reflect serious planning and effort on the part of farmers to arrange their indebtedness on a basis that will put them in a strategic position for the years ahead."

State Cattle Market Bureau Now Active

Nathan Mayo has become the J. Edgar Hoover of Florida cattle. Commission of Agriculture Mayo has set up at Gainesville a bovine equivalent of the F.B.I. identification bureau in Washington.

Just as the FBI labels humans by fingerprints and scars, the Mayo agency tags cattle by brands and marks—the way a steer's ear has been cut leaving the owner's name, and address.

Enacted by the 1945 legislature, the law requiring cattle in most Florida counties to be marked for identification all the way from range to butcher shop has, in Mayo's opinion, reduced thievery materially at a time of great black market temptation to steal.

"From the success the law has been in the six short months of its functioning," reports Commissioner Mayo, "I'm satisfied that other counties will want to come under its protection at the next session of the legislature."

Exempted were counties touching Georgia and Alabama, except Duval and Nassau, and Suwannee and Levy.

"We handle these markings just like fingerprints," explains Mayo. "We sent a cattle owner drawings of left and right ears for him to indicate the markings of his cattle and a card with a picture of an animal for him to show the kind and place of brand."

"These then are filed, after being checked to determine whether his markings conflict with any other in that vicinity, and the owner is issued a registry number." We now have a file of 3,800 brands so indexed that one can not be traced promptly if an inspector in the field sends in a drawing of a questioned brand."

Marks and brands are checked at auction markets primarily, while slaughter stamps are inspected at butcher shops. Each piece of Florida meat must bear a stamp showing numbers assigned to the slaughterer and to the state inspector.

Mayo says lack of state stamp, detected by food inspectors, has resulted in cracking more than one case of black marketing through theft of cattle for slaughter.

A reduction in the legislature of fees agreed upon by cattlemen for the anti-theft service has prevented the agency from functioning to its necessary extent but Mayo believes the 1947 lawmakers will correct this situation.

Reception Held For Methodist Pastor

The sermon topic at the Canal Point Methodist Church for the morning worship service at 11 a. m. on Sunday will be "Your Stake in Mistakes," the text being found in Luke 15:32: "Your brother was dead, and has come to life, and was lost and is found!" The subject for the evening message at 8:15 will be "The Power of Prayer." N. V. Maxson is the superintendent of our Sunday School which meets at 10 a. m.

A reception-dinner for Rev. and Mrs. William T. Blair, the church's new pastor, and his wife, was held on the parsonage lawn last Friday. Mrs. Roswell Harrington, speaking for the members of the church, welcomed the couple, who expressed their great joy at being in Canal Point. The gathering was then led in prayer by D. L. Hooks. The dinner of fried chicken was followed by the cutting of a three-tier wedding cake, that date being the five-week anniversary of the Blairs' wedding. When they returned to the parsonage, they found that a pantry shower had nearly "flooded" the kitchen.

Rev. and Mrs. Blair announce the date of their proposed Open House at the parsonage as Friday, July 26th. The house has been completely redecorated and renovated by members of the parsonage committee with the help of many of the church members and the Blairs' invite all friends and neighbors to see what a fine job has been done.

Program Planned To Fight "Spatics"

TMAPA—Mrs. Louise C. Trigg, executive secretary of the Florida Association for Crippled Children and Adults, announced this week that a comprehensive program is being mapped out for aid of children suffering from cerebral palsy, commonly called "spatics".

Dr. Earl R. Carlson is state advisor and supervisor of this division of the association's work, which is the first of several steps to be taken by the organization in its drive to aid sufferers for cerebral palsy.

Three clinics have already been held this year and the first of a number of schools and treatment centers planned for the state will be established in Hillsborough County while another is being organized in the Manatee-Sarasota district. County health units and school boards are cooperating in the effort while the University of Florida will sponsor a program under the personal direction of Prof. H. P. Constans to train teachers to work with those suffering from speech deficiencies. This special teacher-training course will be held at the University this summer, Mrs. Trigg stated.

In undertaking this special program for the aid of the cerebral palsied, the Florida Association is joining in the national effort which is sponsoring a nationwide program.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Armstrong are spending several weeks in Coconut Grove where Mr. Armstrong is attending Riddle Inter-American Institute.
